= FORTY YEARS AGO =

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, January 10, 1866.—Productiveness of Wisconsin.—Commissioner Newton of the national agricultural bureau, states that Wisconsin produced last season over twenty million bushels of wheat, nearly a million bushels of rye, nearly a million bushels of barley, and more than eighteen million bushels of oats. This is more wheat, more barley, and more oats than was grown in any other state in the union, except Illinois, and more rye than was produced in any other state. About one-seventh of the wheat, one-twentieth of the rye, one-fourteenth of the barley and one-twelfth of the oats produced in the loyal states was grown in Wisconsin. The population of Wisconsin is about one twenty-fifth of the states included in this statement.

A Dry Time.—It is rare indeed that we have so long continued a drought in the winter season as that which we are now experiencing. It has been ten or twelve weeks since we had any rain, and cisterns hitherto deemed amply large have long since failed to furnish an adequate supply of soft water for household purposes. The river is at mid-summer stage, and many people "way out" upon the prairie are carrying water home in solid chunks. The clouds today are threatening rain. Let it come! It will bring smiles to the faces of the busy housekeepers.

Game in the Pinerias.—A Red Wing, Minnesota, correspondent mentions the fact that wild cats, wolves and bears are unusually numerous in Goodhue county, and other counties of the North and West, and asks for an explanation. The fact is easily accounted for in the removal of the Indians from the Western and Northern frontiers of Minnesota. The wild animals, who formed the frontier pickets, had gone, and they, therefore, travel undisturbed to the great forests of the Wisconsin pinerias, from which localities we shall soon hear of their visitations.

A story is told of an inveterate drinker who signed the temperance pledge, but was found soon after imbibing as often as ever. To his friends who remonstrated with him, he replied that the document which he had signed was invalid, because it had not the internal revenue stamp.

Desertions from the regular army are so numerous as to over-balance the enlistments. Laxity of discipline is assigned as a reason for this state of things. The navy is also suffering from the same cause.

SHALL ALDERMEN BE PAID?

The question of salary for the mayor and members of the common council, was up for discussion at the meeting last Monday night and is the subject of more or less discussion on the part of taxpayers. The Gazette has long been of the opinion that no good reason exists why citizens should be expected to devote time and energy to public service, without compensation. Glory and a possible opportunity for graft are the only inducements now offered, and as the average citizen is disposed to be honest and not looking for glory, it is not at all surprising that this class of officers frequently go begging.

The professional office seeker is never a desirable candidate and while the small salary which the city might pay would not prove a large inducement it would interest a class of men who possess the ability to render intelligent service.

It is a delicate matter for members of the council to discuss salaries, because they will be accused of personal interest, but it is a practical question just the same, and the council will be commended for taking some action that will bring the matter to public attention. A free discussion of the question, to which the columns of the Gazette are open, would be a help to the aldermen.

GRAIN RECEIPTS.

Grain receipts at interior primary markets during November, according to reports received by the department of commerce and labor through its bureau of statistics, continue to show large increases in comparison with similar movements for 1934. At twelve of these cities the total grain arrivals during the month aggregated 97,812,953 bushels, an amount over 23 1/2 million bushels greater than that of the like month of 1934, while for the year 1935 to and including November 30, similar receipts reached a total of 651,750,670 bushels as compared with 612,155,656 bushels in 1934.

At the spring wheat markets of Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Duluth, and Chicago receipts of wheat from August 1 to November 30 amounted to 84,880,193 bushels, as against a similar inbound movement in 1934 of 79,929,569 bushels and in 1933 of 81,849,688 bushels. Of the 1935 movements, 41,510,130 bushels were received at Minneapolis, 4,073,380 bushels at Milwaukee, 24,156,654 bushels at Duluth, and 15,440,074 bushels at Chicago. As compared with 1934 receipts, gains were made at Minneapolis, Duluth, and Chicago, a loss having been sustained at Milwaukee. At the winter wheat markets of Toledo, St. Louis, Detroit, and Kansas City receipts of wheat from July 1 to November 30 amounted to 47,355,962 bushels in contrast with like receipts in 1934 of 42,023,353 bushels and in 1933 of 40,790,397 bushels. As compared with the movements of the preceding year gains were made at the markets of Toledo and Kansas City, while slight losses occurred at St. Louis and Detroit.

From Chicago and Chicago points the east-bound trunk line movements of grain during November reached a total of 15,403,000 bushels, and were over 8 million bushels greater than corresponding movements of either 1934 or 1933. Similar shipments during the first eleven months of the current year aggregated 100,001,000 bushels, as against 80,177,000 in 1934, and 73,990,000 bushels in 1933.

At Buffalo shipments of grain from elevators during the month totaled 11,815,769 bushels, of which 8,407,500 bushels represented a rail movement. The total corresponding movement in 1934 amounted to 8,557,316 bushels, and in 1933 to 12,410,669 bushels. During the present canal season to and including November 30, shipments of grain from elevators at Buffalo totaled 70,122,615 bushels, made up of a rail movement of 62,498,760 bushels and a canal movement of 62,498,915 bushels. As compared with similar movements in 1934, a gain of over 17 million bushels was made.

Live stock movements at interior centers during November were not so heavy as for the like month in 1934. At the markets to Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, St. Joseph, and St. Paul receipts of live stock reached a total of 2,599,773 head, as compared with 2,630,895 head in 1934. During the first eleven months of 1935, however, similar arrivals at these cities aggregated 34,349,004 head and were over 2,400,000 head greater than similar receipts for the corresponding month of the preceding year. Gains were made in the arrivals of all classes of animals, the increase in the receipt of hogs and sheep reaching nearly a million head in each instance.

The cars required to handle the inbound movement at these markets during the first eleven months of 1935 numbered 635,369, as compared with 608,839 cars employed in 1934 and 608,414 cars in 1933.

At Chicago, the largest packing house center in the United States, the outbound movement of dressed meats and provisions during November aggregated 296,060,362 pounds, and were over 41 million pounds in excess of similar withdrawals in 1934, although more than 8 million pounds less than corresponding shipments in 1933. During the first eleven months of 1935 similar shipments from that city reached a total of 2,426,532,346 pounds, and were considerably heavier than corresponding movements in either 1934 or 1933.

On the great lakes, shipments of merchandise during November amounted to 7,394,948 tons, falling nearly 2 1/2 million tons below similar withdrawals of the preceding month, but exceeding those of the corresponding movement in 1934 by over 400,000 tons, and those of 1933 by more than 2 million tons. During the first eleven months of 1935 total shipments on the great lakes amounted to 65,999,698 tons, as compared with 48,111,129 tons in 1934 and 55,835,954 tons in 1933. The 1935 outbound movement was divided into 1,173,093 tons of flour, 140,739,632 bushels of grain and flaxseed, 13,879,279 tons of coal, 38,421,550 gross tons of ore and minerals other than coal, 1,885,271 M feet of logs and lumber, and 4,986,669 net tons of unclassified freight.

Of the exports of grain from the United States for November, according to preliminary returns which include about 97 per cent of such movements, 11,891,612 bushels were shipped via Atlantic ports, 3,397,310 bushels via Gulf ports, 2,598,139 bushels via the Pacific ports, and 1,455,293 bushels via northern border, lake, and other border ports, making a total export movement of 19,342,419 bushels, as compared with a corresponding movement in 1934 of 4,551,394 bushels. During the first eleven months of 1935, 140,568,477 bushels of grain were exported from various United States ports, and of this quantity 82,421,400 bushels were credited to Atlantic ports, 29,289,305 bushels to Gulf ports, 11,710,619 bushels to Pacific ports, and 17,687,093 bushels to northern border, lake, and other border ports. A similar total outbound movement in 1934 aggregated 68,630,727 bushels. Total corn exports for the first eleven months of 1935, which amounted to 92,590,615 bushels, as against 83,314,984 bushels in 1934, were the greatest factors in the increase of the former year's withdrawals, although out exports also increased from 1,026,245 bushels in 1934 to 22,802,197 bushels in 1935.

According to the latest available commercial statistics cotton sight receipts during the month of November amounted to 2,164,008 bales, in contrast with 2,369,570 bales in 1934 and 2,317,081 bales in 1933. For the first three months of the current season the amount of cotton brought into sight reached a total of 5,449,437 bales, and was nearly 700,000 bales below a similar movement in 1934, but over 400,000 bales more than that for 1933. Of the American spinners' takings for this period 320,001 bales went to northern mills, and 695,026 bales to the southern mills, making a total of 1,015,027 bales, as compared with similar takings in 1934 of 1,509,345 bales, and in 1933 of 1,516,595 bales.

Shipments of anthracite coal from the eastern producing regions during the month of November totaled 5,421, 534 tons, as against 5,194,088 tons for the corresponding month in 1934, and 4,991,147 tons in 1933. During the first eleven months of 1935, similar shipments aggregated 50,015,088 tons, being over 3 1/2 million tons in excess of corresponding movements in 1934, and nearly a million tons greater than those for 1933.

PRESS COMMENT.

Now For The First Bump.
Green Bay Gazette: In the meantime Senator Bob is sizing up the situation and deciding which trust is to get the first bump.

Art Patrons' Second Thought.
Milwaukee News: It is the sober second thought of the New York patrons of art that without a chorus opera is not worth the money.

Champion Of The Mary Anners.
Milwaukee Sentinel: As the candidate of the Mary Ann league, Speaker Lenroot, who did what he could for the Mary Ann bill, is entitled to the support of all Mary Ann voters.

Oshkosh Humor Again.
Oshkosh Northwestern: The New York chorus girls who struck for an increase of pay have won their point. They evidently knew how to put up a kick so it would count.

Too Giddy To Fly.
Neenah Times: The Oshkosh Northwestern states that an Oshkosh man saw a sure enough robin in his yard in that city. And this is only four days after New Year's day.

Heard Cussing And Heeded?
Chicago Tribune: As soon as Admiral Bob Evans had taken his bearings and uttered a few strong and explosive words those battleships that had run aground hastened to pull themselves loose.

Idiosyncrasies Of Wausau.
Wausau Record: One of the worst things about Wausau is the habit of patching holes in wooden sidewalks with pieces of tin. They make such delightful slipping places and bring such classical language to the agitated fore.

Has Touch Of Vanished Chin.
Madison Journal: Who wrote the Lenroot call to arms? If it didn't carry that touch of the "thin determined chin" and the "clear penetrating eye" one might infer that the boy tossed it off himself. There is nothing said in it, however, of nerve.

To Soothe The Appendix.
Evening Wisconsin: The declaration of a French physician that abdominal pains are more susceptible to appendicitis than habitual drinkers, will give men who croak the hinges of the elbow warrant for the request, "Give me something to soothe the appendix."

Glad Harmony Most Everywhere.
Chicago Record-Herald: Fitzsimmons and his wife have been reunited, the Coreys have decided not to get divorced, and La Follette and Spooner speak as they pass by. Now if England and Germany will become friends, how lovely everything will be.

Dodge A Herculean Task.
El Paso Herald: Some men will do anything to gain a reputation for eccentricity. Here is Champ Clark remarking that he thinks Bryan a bigger man than Roosevelt. But he carefully refrains from the herculean task of explaining why he thinks so.

Chance To Guess Wrong Again.
Milwaukee Journal: The person who concludes that Spooner and La Follette will be found fighting side by side will be badly fooled as was the fellow who expected that both gentlemen would not act like gentlemen during the introductory ceremony.

They Haven't Met—Yet.
El Paso Herald: Representative Sulzer says Croesus could not play poker with Mr. Roosevelt. Surely not for a while yet, anyhow. Owing to an unfortunate discrepancy in the eras which the two men chose for their activity, they have not yet had a chance to meet.

Subject Arouses No Thrills.
Superior Telegram: The Chicago Chronicle has an editorial article on "the art of breakfasting." Its argument includes physiological and historical questions and a scathing denunciation of the trying pan. To the most of us, however, the art of breakfasting is very much the same as the art of dinnering and suppering—the principal and most necessary things being a sharp appetite and something or other to eat.

Oh Fickle Times!
Stevens Point Journal: Some of those who are supporting W. D. Connor for governor are already telling us that one of the reasons why he should be nominated is because he is a large manufacturer and gives much employment to labor. How times do change. For the last five years the same men who are now sounding the praises of Connor on the ground that he represents the manufacturing interests of the state, were almost ready to crucify every man who did not support La Follette—a man who has not given one hundred days of employment to labor in his whole life.

Personal Journalism In I. T.
Superior Telegram: The Record of Wagoner, I. T., is very much opposed to personal journalism. It doesn't believe in abusing people in print, and it goes so far in that direction as to bring to mind the fellow who was going to "have peace" even if he had to fight for it. It says: "We shall not further notice anything that the uncouth editor of the News may have to say. We ceased to read his dirty sheet the moment he descended to personal journalism. The use of rough, uncouth braggadocio we can not comprehend."

In Behalf Of Home Weddings.
Marquette Eagle-Star: Although the legislature does not meet again for over a year, the members should study again the conditions existing under the true marriage law and see if Michigan cannot be induced to amend its laws on the question, or to have the Wisconsin statute changed. The present law sends three-fourths of the marriages across the border in this northern section, and while the marriages are just as legal it is not appropriate that young Wisconsin men and women should leave home to get married. We do not believe that the present law imposes any unjust restriction on those desiring to wed; but some modification might be made which would make it seemingly less objectionable to lovers who are in a haste to wed.

La Crosse Leader-Press: The course of the responsible owners of the Milwaukee Free Press affecting suits brought against that ambitious newspaper on account of certain of its confident utterances upon the character and reputation of prominent citizens of this state is not calculated to impress the public with the notion that they are strongly possessed of the courage of their convictions. We make no complaint on this score of the distinctly waspish editor of the newspaper in question. He appears to be ready to "take his medicine" and to stand by his guns—or more properly by his ovipositor. But he is the employee of some distinguished and wealthy gentlemen who are far more discreet—who seem much inclined to respect orders to "fire and fall back." The editorial policy of the Free Press has from the beginning been uncompromising. Its real and responsible owners cut rather a sorry figure in affidavits denying control or knowledge of its utterances and repudiating the animus of its editors.

Marquette Abolishes Football.
Green Bay Gazette: The Marquette school board has taken a radical stand on football which is expected will be followed by similar action on the part of many other schools in the state as well as out of it. By strong resolutions the board denounces football as detrimental to the mental and moral life of the students as well as dangerous to life and limb, and therefore inter-scholastic football is forbidden for the future. This is drawing the line much stricter than has generally been intended by educators in their discussions on student life. The great majority of the educators have expressed themselves in favor of greatly modifying the game, cutting out the brutality, players and danger to them, but at the same time permitting the continuance of contests between the schools and colleges. Unless a decisive change is soon made in the conduct of the game the radical action of the Marquette school board will be quite generally followed to the lasting detriment of a once fine and fascinating athletic game.

The Square Deal In News.
Sheboygan Journal: One of the difficult things to explain, outside of a newspaper office, is why news and matters of public interest cannot be suppressed to suit those who have personal reasons for not wanting news to be published. If one man who believes he has a slight "pull" gets arrested, for example, he does not understand why it hurts a newspaper to suppress the fact in his particular case. He does not realize that everyone else who conflicts with the law feels the same way.

The fact is, there is scarcely any item of news that appears that somebody would not like to have suppressed. The newspaper that started out to accommodate everything in this respect would print no news at all. The only way in which any newspaper can hope to succeed is by treating every body alike, old and young, rich and poor.

In a smaller city it is more difficult to make people realize this, but it is as true in a small town as in a large one. No newspaper anywhere can succeed unless it gives everyone a "square deal," and there can be no square deal unless the news is printed without fear or favor.

Advertisers should be the first to realize this. The advertiser who tries to exclude news from the paper he patronizes detracts just so much from the interest with which that newspaper is read, and hurts the value of his investment just that much.

News that concerns the doings of the courts, or of any public body, is public property, and the newspaper that suppresses it is traveling under false pretenses. The public has a right to know it, and it depends upon the newspapers to tell it. No newspaper that makes a practice of suppressing facts because it interferes with the plans of the business of some individual can hope for success. The very person who succeeds in keeping the news from being printed is generally first to "back" that paper is uninteresting and unenterprising.

Keep This One.

A traveling salesman arrived at home about 8 o'clock in the morning to discover that his wife had given birth to triplets. He was delighted almost beyond control of himself. "My," he said, "I must go back and wake up Dooley, the doctor, and his next door neighbor and a dog fancier. He pulled Dooley out of bed, got him to hurry on his clothes, brought him in about half awake, and stood him before the triplets. "Aren't they dandies?" he asked. Dooley gazed at them in a semi-awakened state and still rubbing the sleep from his eyes replied: "Yes; they're all right. I think if I were you I would keep that one in the middle."

They Published His Picture.
During the uncampment of the Kansas state militia in conjunction with the regulars at Fort Riley, Kan., several years ago a number of photographs were taken to illustrate a magazine story. After the return of the "brave tin soldiers" as the militiamen were styled by their friends, one of them informed his parents that his picture would appear in a forthcoming number of a certain magazine. When the magazine appeared he took one to the incredulous parents and opened it, disclosing a picture of the militia encampment at Fort Riley.

"Where is your picture?" they asked.
"You see that first row of soldiers?"
"Yes."
"And behind them is a row sitting?"
"Yes. Where are you?"
"Back of them all is a row of tents. I'm in one of them tents."—Kansas City Times.

HAVE FEWER POCKETS.

Number in Men's Clothes Reduced by Tailors to Prevent Bulging Garments.

The real difference between man and modern woman is that a man's clothes have 14 pockets and a woman's have none. But an American salesman who returned from London recently declared that even that distinction was disappearing.

"I had some new sack suits made in London," he grumbled, "and now I have to wear my overcoat in all weathers as a baggy cane. London tailors don't alter styles much, but they are constantly tinkering with fittings. My new coats have an inside pocket and no outside pockets at all. The flaps are only dummies. The trousers have one side pocket and one 'ticket' pocket, as they call it there—about as big as a watch pocket—and no hip pockets at all."

"We find that gentlemen load their clothes up with useless books and papers and get them dragged out of shape. We are trying this as a mild measure of reform," the tailor said. And now I have either to wear this overcoat in all weathers or leave everything I need about me at home."

HIS MAJESTY WAS WISE.

Knew Something About the Ways of the White Man with a Graft.

As the fearless white man entered the kral of the native king, a salute was sounded on a drum of serpent skin, and six warriors, with necklaces of human teeth rattling about their ebony throats, led him before a rough ivory dais, on which sat a majestic and formidable figure.

"Hail!" said the white man. And without loss of time he took out one of his brass watches, wound it up, and showed its works to the dusky monarch.

"This marvel," he said, "I will give you my majesty, making you the envy of all men and all tribes, in return for only six ticks of not less than 70 pounds weight each."

The king took the watch, produced a monologue from a pouch hidden in his shield, and after a moment's study of the brass trinket, returned it with a jauged smile.

"Last year," he said, "in London, I exchanged an old wooden war club for a bushel of these things, and by Jove, there wasn't one of them that ran above a week."

He Knew It.

Mrs. Bryden—And is this chair really an antique piece of furniture?
Mrs. Swolly—Antique, madam? There's no doubt about that. Why, it was so worn-out when I bought it that I had to have a new back, and a new seat, and three new legs made for it.—Chicago Tribune.

TO MAKE MUSCULAR MAIDS

Club of English Women Seeks to Purify and Develop Strength in Women.

The maids of Blackburn are making a supreme effort in regard to the development of the race, reports the London Express.

They have organized a club under the name of the Blackburn and District Ladies' Natural Health society, and they have a membership of about 40.

"The society," said the secretary, "aims at the development of a pure and nobler womanhood and manhood."

The specific objects of the club are: To discourage the wearing of corsets, to discourage the unnecessary physical weakness of women, to promote the consideration of the health question, to cultivate a proper pride regarding the care of the body, to discourage prudery and ignorance regarding vital physical facts, to foster a love for outdoor exercise as a means to develop health and strength, and to discourage the use of tobacco and intoxicants among male friends and acquaintances.

All young unmarried girls residing in Blackburn and district are eligible for membership provided they subscribe to the principles of the society.

A field has been rented by the club for the purpose of engaging in outdoor sports and an instructress in gymnastics has been engaged to take the members in hand in the winter months. It is proposed to establish a library of books on all matters appertaining to physical culture, health and hygiene.

JUDGE DUNWIDDIE'S DECISIONS AFFIRMED

By Supreme Court in Its Opening Session—T. J. McKeigue Will Bring $7,000 Damage Action

During the opening session of the January term yesterday the state supreme court handed down a decision against the plaintiff in the case of the North-Western Ry. Co. vs. T. J. McKeigue, brought to enjoin the defendant from prosecuting an action for damages for the death of Switchman Edmund Broderick, who was killed by falling from the footboard of his locomotive near the water works in this city on July 14, 1904. Johanna Murphy, the only surviving sister, had attempted to settle the death claim with the company and it was on this basis that the C. & N. W. brought its action. The court held that the settlement should not prevent the action from being tried and attorneys Ryan & Oestreich, appearing for Mr. McKeigue, will bring suit for $7,000 damages during the February term of the circuit court.

Judge Dunwiddie's decision in the action of Reither vs. Lindstrom, started in Beloit and appealed from circuit court, was affirmed. Fethers, Jeffris, Monat & Newhouse appeared for the appealing party and Ruger & Ruger for the respondent.

The case of Godfrey vs. Godfrey—a local action brought to recover on a promissory note, was not decided. W. G. Wheeler represented the plaintiff and Fethers, Jeffris, Monat & Newhouse for the defendant.

The body of John F. Kenna has been found at a bridge near the Hermerich & Richardson farm in Ford county, Illinois. Kenna received a box of whisky by express at the Elliott office Tuesday and started home. When found the whisky was near the body. The coroner's verdict was death from exposure.

The Northwestern Hemlock association has decided upon another increase in the price of hemlock lumber. The raise will vary from 50 cents to $1.50 per thousand feet. It is said that the demand for hemlock during recent weeks has been unprecedented. Weather conditions in the Michigan peninsula have not been conducive to profitable logging operations.

AN AUTOMOBILE IN FIJI.

Enlists the Admiring Interest of the Dusky Monarch of the Islands.

Charles J. Glidden, the world-touring automobilist, tells some interesting stories about the king of the Fiji islands, who received the American tourist very graciously, and was only sorry that he could not stay longer, so as to give the dusky monarch more rides over his seaboard domains.

"The king was educated in Sydney, Australia, and is a very gentlemanly fellow," said Mr. Glidden, "considering the fact that his father was a cannibal."

"He had never seen a motor car before I landed him on the island, but he possessed some of the up-to-date enthusiasm on the subject, for his first question was: 'Can it go 60 miles an hour?'

"I couldn't go fast enough for him; which was in marked contrast with the sultan of Java, who wouldn't let me go faster than four miles an hour, and it was the most difficult driving I had to do on my whole tour."

The Fiji king is as black as the ace of spades. The old cannibal days of Fiji are passing away, however, for one of the first things I saw on landing was a low house with a big sign reading: 'American Ice Drinks.' Not so far away from home, after all, I thought. It's a warm place, and ice drinks ought to pay."

ANXIOUS FOR HIS DIVORCE

Applicant Was Willing to Furnish Ample Grounds If They Were Lacking.

A Rhode Island lawyer, who devotes much of his attention to the procurement of divorces, according to the New York Times, tells the following:

"One day there entered my office a prosperous-looking German, who, without much preliminary conversation, stated that he wanted a divorce. Suffice it to say that the mass of facts elicited from the applicant would have served to obtain several divorces. At that, it was a toss-up as to whether the man or his wife was the better entitled to a judicial separation. So I hinted to the German that it might be well for him to allow the woman to get the divorce."

"She's a woman, you know, I added, and it would be wiser for both of you."

"The man gazed anxiously at me for some minutes. Then he exclaimed, excitedly:

"You think I had done enough to her already, eh?"

"Certainly," answered I.

"Because," he added, eagerly, "if I hadn't, den I'll go and hit her once now!"

What's the Use?

Lying in a hammock in a shady nook, listening to the laughter of a babbling brook; sipping cool juleps, dreaming time away, wouldn't this be lovely on a summer day? Listening to the wind sighs, through the swaying leaves, watching where the sunbeam and the shadow weaves; smell the fragrant blossoms, hear the songsters sing, who could dream of anything—but what's the use? The best we get is a lilac bush in the back yard.

STUDENTS DEPLORE ACTION OF FACULTY

Wisconsin Athletes Do Not Want Football Cut Out of the College Sports.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 10.—Students of the University of Wisconsin are practically unanimous in denouncing the action of the faculty against intercollegiate football as unwarranted by the conditions here and utterly contrary to the sentiment in the institution. The proposal of the faculty, however, that the "big nine" suspend all intercollegiate gridiron contests appears to be popular outside of the student body. The faculty itself is divided. Doubtless were a vote taken of the members of the faculty it would result in favor of upholding the game toward a reduction of roughness and the further elimination of professionalism, rather than to suspend all intercollegiate contests.

President Van Hise says he is taking no part in the matter, but there is reason to believe that he would like to have the universities fall in with the resolutions adopted by the Wisconsin legislature, appropriated $10,000 for a thorough investigation of the university, including all departments and activities, and it is said that the action of the faculty in taking an advanced position with reference to football is in part at least for the purpose of shoving to the investigating committee that the university authorities are not placing football and professional athletics over and above the purposes for which the university is maintained by the people of the state with taxes of about $1,000,000 a year.

Students here are praying that the other institutions will not adopt the suspension plan proposed by the Wisconsin faculty. A mass meeting will be held to protest against the action of the faculty and resolutions will be adopted and sent to the other universities in the hope of exerting a restraining influence. The action taken by the faculty is called "frenzied" and a call is being prepared to be sent to several hundred alumni requesting that their influence be exerted to "steady" the faculty.

SPEAKS GOOD WORD FOR HIS HOME TOWN

C. P. Thomas Talks to a Milwaukee Sentinel Reporter in Milwaukee.

"Janesville is progressing as a factory center and I believe it will soon rank second only to Milwaukee among the cities of the state," said C. P. Thomas, a Milwaukee Sentinel reporter at the Kirby House in Milwaukee. "One of the surest indications of progress along industrial lines, to my mind, is the establishment of many small factories. These will in time grow larger as their business increases and as they get their growth in the city where they are located more and more identical with those of the city. In this respect Janesville is more than holding its own. Between fifteen and twenty new industries have been located there in the last two years and each of these seems to have a brilliant future. Combining these with the old established factories around which the present city has grown, one can readily see that the claim that Janesville will in time be the second city in the state is founded on excellent facts."

STATE NOTES

After taking a systematic canvass of the people in all the saloons and churches of La Crosse at a certain hour, the Rev. J. W. Irish, pastor of the First Methodist church, has declared that the people of that city are twice as fond of liquor as they are of religion. There were 1,057 men in the saloons at a certain time on Sunday and only 665 in the churches.

Mollie Richards, who disappeared from Kenosha some four years ago, has been located at Kansas City, Mo. Miss Richards was supposed to have eloped with Herman Reidenbach, a well-known Kenosha musician, who was charged with deserting his wife and family to marry the girl. Later Mrs. Reidenbach secured a divorce.

It is now formally announced that the Richards girl and Reidenbach have been married and they are residing in the Missouri territory.

The Waupaca police department are greatly puzzled over some burglaries which have been committed there within the last three weeks. Several suspects have been arrested and closely watched and search warrants issued, but without avail. The burglars make entrance by cutting out a small piece of glass in the window and unlocking and raising it up. One saloon was entered three times and about $68 taken. A restaurant was entered twice and about $58 secured.

Assemblyman Bohri, District Attorney Martin L. Fugina, Alex. Baechler, deputy sheriff, and Charles Krehner, justice of the peace, all residents of Fountain City, Buffalo county, have received notice that they have been relieved of liability by the United States circuit court of appeals from the award of $5,000 damages sought against them in a case brought by Louis Barnett, a peddler, for false imprisonment. Barnett was locked up for failure to take out a local peddler's license.

HOME AMUSEMENT

PANAMA PROBE IS TO BE OPEN

Senate Gives Its Committee
Full Power to Conduct the Investigation.

NOMINATIONS ARE HELD OVER

Official Acts and Records of Men
Named to Conduct Canal Affairs
Will Fall Within Scope of the Proposed Inquiry.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The senate Tuesday authorized its committee on intercommerce to take the "lid off Panama." The committee is empowered to hold the investigation either in full committee or by subcommittee to sit during the sessions and the recesses of the senate and to summon all necessary persons and papers.

At a meeting of the canal committee held previous to the convening of the senate the necessity of investigation was discussed at length and it was the sense of all the members, Republicans as well as Democrats, that every phase of the situation must be looked into.

Hold Up Nominations

As a result of this determination nothing was done with the pending nominations of members of the canal commission. Necessarily the official records and acts of these commissioners will fall within the scope of the inquiry, and in consequence these nominations will be held up until the investigation has been completed.

Chairman Millard will call the committee together at an early date to formulate plans for the conduct of the investigation. It is the present idea that the hearings shall be with open doors.

Questions Monetary Pact.

Senator Bailey's resolution calling upon the finance committee to investigate and report upon the authority under which Secretary Taft entered into certain monetary and exchange agreements with the government of Panama and bankers doing business on the isthmus for maintenance of the parity of Panama money was passed by the senate without debate. Senator Simmons introduced a resolution calling upon the secretary of war to furnish a list of all canal employees whose salaries are as much as $2,000 per year, with a statement of their duties; also a list showing the amounts paid to the consulting engineers.

UNCLE JOE WORKS HARD.

Speaker Believes He Has Quelled
Party Insurrection.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Speaker Cannon thinks he has defeated the Republican uprising in the House organized by Representative Babcock and consisting of opponents of the Philippine tariff and the statehood bills. Uncle Joe has been working overtime for two days, and believes he has whipped enough of the recalcitrants into line. Minority Leader Williams gave the insurgents a jolt when he announced on the floor of the House that the Democrats could not consistently vote against the Philippine bill. On the other hand, the insurgents claim they still have more than fifty-eight votes, the number required with the solid Democratic vote, to defeat the speaker. The insurgents held a meeting which was attended by twenty-seven members. A poll of the House was read which, it is claimed, showed fewer than seventy-five will remain loyal to Mr. Cannon. Mr. Babcock has been given a dose of his own medicine and does not like it. Tuesday as chairman of the committee on the District of Columbia, he held the floor of the House. To his surprise, the leaders of the Republicans opposed the bills which he had asked the House to pass. After having considerable fun the leaders quietly informed Mr. Babcock that they were showing him what an insurrection could do.

ATTACK PHILIPPINE BILL.

House Members Give Reasons for Opposition to Measure.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The opponents of the Philippine tariff bill had their inning in the house Tuesday and for five hours attacked the measure from all standpoints. Mr. Bourne of Colorado discussed the bill from the standpoint of the beet sugar industry. Mr. Burgess of Texas opposed it on constitutional grounds, and had a lively colloquy with the minority leader, Mr. Williams, on this point. He charged that the Democrats, to be consistent, should oppose anything but free trade with the Philippines on the ground that it was an American possession. Mr. Williams defended the minority position by saying he was supporting the bill because it was as near free trade as it was possible to obtain from the majority. Mr. Cassel of Pennsylvania spoke in behalf of the tobacco raisers of his district, and Mr. Henry of Connecticut took the same position for his constituents. Mr. Goulden of New York closed the debate for the day with a brief reference to the need of taking the protection of the Dingley rates from the giant trusts of the country.

Rate Evil Remedy.

Washington, Jan. 10.—That the settlement of all difficulties over railroad rates should be obtained in the courts according to common law methods was contended by Senator Morgan in a speech in the Senate in support of his rate regulation bill. He held that an effort to deal with such matters by means of a code in-companionship and recklessness. He passes the hours of idleness and goes home bored. Again it was a well-known fact that the all-night saloon was a hot-bed of crime. Under darkness what would not be tolerated in the daytime is more easily committed. The places, provide a rendezvous for kindred spirits to lay their plans and for young men who aspire to be sports, or toughs to exercise their talents. Sunday was a day of enforced idleness and with the saloons open money that should go to families was turned into channels worse than useless. As a general proposition; the man who receives the most harm in a saloon is the man who spends the most time there. All laws should be enforced. If they are objectionable, they should either be repealed or modified.

OPPOSING THEORIES ON PUBLIC MORALITY

Not on Narrow Path

Geo. S. Parker said that it was pretty near a cinch that there were a good many young fellows in this town who were not on the straight and narrow path. Some frequented the saloons because they had no better place to go. The invitation of the Y. M. C. A. was not accepted. He suggested the establishment of club rooms in the heart of the city, where smoking would be allowed and refreshments of a non-intoxicating nature should be served by young ladies in uniform. He had talked with a business man who would contribute $1,000 to such a project. Jesse Earle asked Judge Fife if it were not true that more drunks were arrested over Sunday than all other days in the week. Judge Fife said he was sorry to disappoint, but that taking into consideration the fact that two days elapsed before the court session on Monday the showing was not above the work-day average. Rev. Boissier said that he thought many were kept away from the Y. M. C. A. because the word "Christian" was in the title and they were afraid of being asked to join a church. He believed the evils of the saloon could be combated by substitution and described a successful experiment with a church hall in Mauston, where all respectable people were permitted to enjoy dancing and card playing several times a week.

Saloon As a Club-House

T. S. Nolan said that the trouble with such a proposition was that it gathered in only the "respectable people." The problem lay with people who were not "respectable." This trouble with good people in this country was that they didn't think enough of the under-dog. He did not agree with the proposition that the saloon was a center of crime. They were the club-houses for the people whom his Reverend friend would not take in. As a young man the speaker himself used to visit them occasionally to play billiards and pool and he hadn't been spoiled. He was not defending them, particularly, but he objected to wholesale condemnation. Good people visited them—probably two-thirds of the last speaker's congregation. There was no use denying plain facts. He would say a little less cash for foreign missions and more for the same work at home. Judge Fife agreed heartily with what Mr. Nolan had said, but he begged to ask on what ground he made the assertion that they hadn't spoiled HIM. M. G. Jeffris criticized Mr. Nolan for taking exception to churches when in the very hall he had applauded a prayer. Mr. Nolan said the prayer in question was a good prayer—one of the few good ones he ever heard. Rev. Boissier said that he had been misunderstood—that he had meant by respectable all who were respectable at heart. Some distinction had to be made. F. A. Taylor reminded Mr. Parker that a club already started had been overlooked. If Mr. Parker wanted maids and uniforms and had a friend ready to give $1,000, why not turn it over to the Salvation Army which had uniforms and music and religion and was doing good? He was in earnest, he said.

On Wicked River Street

David Atwood said that the club idea had been tried in larger cities and had not proven successful. He asked if it wasn't better under existing conditions in Janesville to put saloons under careful police supervision, at the same time making the laws liberal enough so that the police would not have to close their eyes to conditions which were in violation of the ordinances perhaps, but which custom demands—make the laws liberal enough so that there would not be a revolution at the polls following each attempt to strictly enforce. W. W. Watt advised anyone who wished to know about certain sociological phenomena and the enforcement of the law in Janesville to visit the hot-bed of disorder on South River street between the hours of 12 and 2 a. m. as he saw it.

Gambling and Disorderly Houses

A. G. Matheson in discussing the subject of the suppression of the gambling and disorderly houses, combatting from the outset the proposition often made with seeming sincerity that the latter ought to exist as a concession to the evil passions of men and as a protection for the better classes, holding such tenets as illogical in all their phases. If one spoke of protection, what of those who provided the protection? Were they not the sisters and daughters of someone and that one perhaps as deeply interested as any of his listeners in their good name and welfare? Somewhere in the wild places of earth the leader of a tribe may have a number of wives and concubines. But he has some responsibility—he protects and provides for them and he is far ahead of the man of our civilization who assumes the right to degrade womanhood without taking any of the responsibilities. The speaker opposed segregation of the places because a black spot was thus created in full view of children and the influence could not do other than contaminate. He hesitated always to say what officials should do because he knew under what difficulties they labored; but he believed that in this city and all others of the size it was possible to completely exclude them.

With regard to gambling he said that all arguments about games played in certain private homes or for the cigars in public places were mere subtleties designed to raise a cloud of dust and hide the real issue. The law was concerned with men who conduct gambling resorts for their own profit. These also, he believed, should go and it was as much the duty of every citizen to maintain the dignity and majesty of the law as it was of officers. The latter could not hope to accomplish anything without a substantial public sentiment behind them.

For a Curfew Law

Judge Fife introduced his discussion of a curfew law with a consideration of the difficulties in the way of enforcing law. A man arrested was presumed innocent until proven guilty and so proven beyond a reasonable doubt. Juries were able to find reasonable doubt when the prosecution was sure it had an open and shut case. In his experience it had been almost impossible to convict persons of selling liquor without a license, yet in a place where no license was granted a great deal more liquor was sold. Orfordville, a few years ago, was an illustration. One person arrested a number of times and defended by Mr. Smith was found innocent. The foreman of one jury who so found him had afterwards asked the judge to caution him not to do it again. The prosecution always has to take the evidence that comes to its hand. It has to take the person who bought the liquor. A hired detective will not do. In 99 cases out of a hundred the person who bought the liquor will commit perjury. Yet he cannot be convicted of this latter crime because if he testifies that the stuff didn't taste to him like liquor, no one can prove the contrary. So the question of having a law and enforcing it are two different things. In attempting to improve the morals of the city, it was well to go back as far as possible and commence on the child. The speaker dwelt on several instances of the injury worked in a whole ward by one bad boy. The hardened criminal, he believed, could not be changed, but he believed much could be done for the young with a curfew law.

Curfew Law Defeated

H. L. Maxfield said that the whole trouble lay in the fact that parents sent to school, at the age of four or five years, children who had never been taught to mind at home and then expected the teacher to do in six hours, five days of the week, what a mother or father had not been able to do in years. The children who had been taught to mind did not turn out badly. The vicious ones were recruited from the ranks of the cute and cunning who had been spoiled at home. He had in mind a grand mother who had so brought up her children that of her 22 grandchildren not one had ever tasted liquor, used tobacco in any form, or indulged in other serious vices. Mr. Smith said that 60 saloons, paying $500 license each had to disburse the law to live and that the council knew this when it sold the indulgences. As regards some of the other evils he said that a deacon of the Baptist church had to his certain knowledge remonstrated with the public officers in a proposed move some years ago because the parties who would be affected, as he said, were the best customers he had. Laws could be enforced if the people wanted them enforced. T. S. Nolan attacked the curfew law as follows: A very small percentage of the children went wrong. M. F. Greene cited a case where a saloon opposite Central hall had been wide open when a dance was in progress and of the rejoinder of the officer to whom he complained: "They've got to have a little leeway." That wasn't our present marshal, said E. T. Fish with conviction. A. E. Matheson moved that a committee of three be appointed to take steps to secure the introduction and passage of a curfew law. T. S. Nolan offered an amendment and M. G. Jeffris seconded it that the same committee be empowered to arrest any witch or witches who might be found. He thought such action would subject the Twilight Club to ridicule and if carried out would cripple the police force. They already had the right to break up shanty meetings and send children home who were engaged in mischief. To hear some of his friends talk, he said one might imagine none of them had ever been bad boys. He would wager that 90 out of 100 of the so-called bad boys in this city will turn out good. Sunday school boys were not always the best. There were a few things that had to be learned in the school of experience. Levi Carle spoke even more emphatically along the same lines. There was only one minister present at the meeting.

The Reason

"Why does one want a study in which to be alone at times with his books?" you ask. For the reason that he does not care to have people present at the making of his mental toilet any more than at the making of the physical one.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Asbestos

Asbestos is a mineral, a silicate of magnesia and lime, together with iron oxide. It is worked in commercial deposits in Italy, Tasmania, New South Wales, Canada and the United States. Its distinguishing economical character lies in its resistance to heat and in destructibility through fire.

Expressions of Dead Soldiers.

Army surgeons state that the expressions on the faces of soldiers killed in battle indicate the cause of death. Those who have perished from sword wounds have a look of repose, while there is an expression of pain on the countenance of those slain by bullets.

LONG TRIP WITH OX TEAM.

Over 1500 Miles Made by Elderly Couple and Family in Eight Months.

An old-time prairie schooner, drawn by two ox teams, and the wagon filled with the entire earthly possessions of William Hoyt has covered the distance of 1,200 miles between Decatur, Ala., and Guthrie since April 6 last, with stops of several weeks duration at Memphis, Little Rock and Fort Smith, where Hoyt worked to get enough money on which to continue the journey to Beaver county, in this territory, where he will homestead a claim and begin life anew, says a Guthrie (Okla.) correspondence of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Hoyt is now 60 years old, and is accompanied by his wife, aged 52, a son, Louis, aged 14, and two daughters, Clementine, aged 13, and Katherine, aged 10. When the outfit reaches Beaver county it will have covered 1,500 miles.

Hoyt himself is white haired, but spry. All his life he has been an iron molder and for 40 years he worked in shops at Decatur. Finally he became sick and his physicians recommended a complete change of climate. Hoyt sold what property he had and purchased the oxen and six head of cows and started. Hoyt and his son attend to the oxen while the mother and oldest girl follow on foot with the cows. The cows are tied together, to prevent a stampede, and are led by Mrs. Hoyt. The girl leads a three-months-old calf. All parties, excepting the youngest daughter, have walked practically the entire distance.

GIANT WORK OF GLACIER.

Electric Power Being Generated by Melted Ice of the Northwest Mountains.

From the glacial streams of Tacoma is already generated a very large quantity of electric power, which is being utilized not only for power, but for heating and lighting as well. To give an idea of the diversity of uses for the current, says the Technical World Magazine, it may be stated that it operates the electric railway systems in the cities of Seattle and Tacoma aggregating 168 miles of trolley line, in addition to cable railways situated in the hilly portions of these cities. Besides this service, however, current is furnished for one of the most notable interurban electric railways in the United States, that extending between Seattle and Tacoma, where power is secured from the third rail in connection with the multiple-unit system. This line is employed not only for passenger service, but for transporting freight and express material, and ranks among the most completely equipped electric systems in the world. The horse power required for a number of the largest industries in the city of Tacoma, including the shops of the Northern Pacific railway and the water-works pumping plant, is also obtained from this source, while illumination for streets and buildings, in both Seattle and Tacoma, depends upon it to a considerable extent. The demand for power is increasing so rapidly that within a few years Mount Tacoma will be supplying fully 50,000 horse-power to the cities mentioned.

PEARLS FOR THE MARKET.

Fresh Water Gems Cultivated for Sale in the Mississippi Basin.

The systematic culture of fresh water pearls may easily become an important industry in the United States as the mollusk from which they are taken are very abundant in our lakes and rivers, says the Technical World Magazine. The Mississippi basin, especially, teems with them, presenting many forms which differ from those of the Atlantic watershed and other parts of the world.

The methods of culture are exceedingly simple as it is necessary only to open slightly the shell and insert a very small transparent glass bead, putting it between the mantle and the shell. Great care must be taken to avoid injury to the little animal, and in opening the shell a thin, flat iron tool with a wooden handle and a bent point should be used; a knife might answer for this purpose. When the point has been inserted it is turned around to an angle of about 90 degrees, the shell being thus partially opened without injury to the life within. After treatment, it must be returned to the water for a year or two, while the process of incrustation goes on.

FORMER FACTORY GIRL AT EXCLUSIVE DANCE

Mrs. John Graham Phelps Stokes, Who Was Rose Pastor, Meets Cream of New York Society.

New York, Jan. 10.—Mrs. John Graham Phelps Stokes, formerly Miss Rose Pastor, made her formal bow to fashionable society in Sherry's Tuesday night, where her mother-in-law, Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, gave a dance and cotillon. The entertainment ostensibly was for the Misses Mildred and Helen Stokes, but the young daughter-in-law, who once worked in a cigar factory, was of MRS. JOHN G. PHELPS STOKES greater interest. She who had elevated herself above sordid surroundings met in the white and gold ballroom in Sherry's the cream of New York society, and chatted on terms of equality with bediamonded dowagers who make social history in New York. Feted debutantes in spangles and chiffons bowed before the former cigar-factory girl as she stood with the Stokeses.
